The NYSPCC is proud to welcome two new Board Members. The NYSPCC is pleased to welcome two new Members: Santina Hodges, in recognition of her support of our work, and Dr. Betsy Tait, to the Board of Directors. Dr. Santina Hodges is a Family Psychologist and Family Therapist. "We commend their dedication to our mission and to the NYSPCC.

In Case You Missed It

Our amazing supporter and child abuse prevention advocate, the Weinstein Foundation, has generously afforded the NYSPCC a matching gift challenge of $30,000.

The Weinstein Foundation would like to help in bringing down the financial wall that we hope to remove to offer this opportunity for our kids. The NYSPCC is proud to see the opportunity and raise a donation to help us in this existing matching gift challenge. Any amount is appreciated. Together, we can meet the challenge and raise $70,000.

Helping Children Heal

The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NYSPCC) provides compassionate, caring support to children and teens who have been exposed to physical abuse, sexual assault, or neglect. More than 85% of the young clients served by NYSPCC have experienced sexual abuse, neglect, and domestic violence throughout their lives. NYSPCC’s innovative programs and services provide children and their families with the support they need to heal from the trauma of abuse. NYSPCC’s mission is to ensure that every child is safe and free from harm.

During the pandemic, the physical and emotional health of children and teens is more vulnerable than ever. NYSPCC is prioritizing the safety and well-being of all children by continuing to provide therapeutic counseling, support services, and advocacy. NYSPCC is dedicated to empowering children and teens to heal from physical abuse, sexual abuse, neglect, and domestic violence.

NYSPCC provides a range of therapeutic services to help children and teens heal from physical abuse, sexual abuse, and neglect. NYSPCC’s services include play therapy, art therapy, creative writing, and group counseling. NYSPCC’s trained therapists work with children and teens to help them process their emotions and develop coping strategies.

NYSPCC’s School-based and Community-based Programs provide therapeutic counseling and support services to children and teens in schools and communities across New York City. NYSPCC’s School-based Programs provide therapeutic counseling and support services to children and teens in schools and communities across New York City. NYSPCC’s Community-based Programs provide therapeutic counseling and support services to children and teens in communities across New York City.

NYSPCC’s Forensic Services provide comprehensive support to children and teens who have been sexually assaulted or physically abused. NYSPCC’s Forensic Services work closely with law enforcement agencies to ensure that children and teens receive the support they need to heal from physical abuse, sexual abuse, and neglect.

NYSPCC’s National Helpline provides confidential support and information to children and teens who have been exposed to physical abuse, sexual assault, or neglect. NYSPCC’s National Helpline is available 24/7, 365 days a year.

NYSPCC’s Board of Directors and Staff are dedicated to providing compassionate, caring support to children and teens who have been exposed to physical abuse, sexual assault, or neglect. NYSPCC is committed to ensuring that every child is safe and free from harm.

Food & Wine Gala

On November 26th, 2020, over $400,000 was raised at the Annual Food & Wine Gala. The NYSPCC Board Member, Elizabeth Falkner created a new wine and Delaware Ndelf, of Delaware Ndelf & Wine, and Winemaker, Edward Forrester, of Forrester, took the podium to announce the results of the Strength of Our Society Award nomination, recognizing the commitment and contributions to NYSPCC. The NYSPCC recognized its efforts to end child abuse.

Spring Luncheon

In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, the NYSPCC quickly pivoted from hosting an in-person Spring Luncheon to host a virtual event to honor the work of the organization. The NYSPCC Executive Director, Mary L. Pulido, hosted the event, which featured a dynamic panel of speakers and an engaging keynote address by former New York Police Commissioner, Raymond Kelly. The event was a huge success, raising over $90,000 to support NYSPCC’s vital programs and services.

Thank You!

Steve Forrester, Esq., The NYSPCC’s Director of Government Relations and Administration, was honored by the organization for his dedicated service. Steve has provided key leadership on a variety of legislative and legal matters over the past decade. He also serves as the NYSPCC’s liaison with the New York State Children’s Alliance, Inc. (NYSCA). Steve has been integral in the successful advocacy efforts of the NYSPCC’s Children’s Committee.

You Can Help Protect Children From Abuse During COVID-19

By Mary L. Pulido, Ph.D.

As April was Child Abuse Prevention Month, we wanted to share some tips on how you can help protect children from physical abuse, sexual assault, and neglect during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Melody, a teenage girl in foster care, who underwent a trauma-informed assessment at NYSPCC, illustrates the type of collateral work that involves the clients’ lives to ensure that their needs are met. We would like to thank the administrators, case workers, attorneys, judges, and other mental health professionals involved in this case for their hard work.

In 2019, more than 85% of our young clients had experienced sexual abuse, neglect, and family violence. NYSPCC, along with other child advocacy organizations, provides therapeutic counseling to help children and teens heal from physical abuse, sexual abuse, and neglect.

Helping Children Heal

The NYSPCC’s Trauma Recovery Program provides compassionate care to help children and teens heal from physical abuse, sexual assault, neglect, or emotional trauma. In COVID-19, more than 60% of our young clients suddenly isolated themselves from their support systems. But it’s not only because of the health risks. The coronavirus has impacted school and phone calls and meetings with teachers, school nurses, therapists, social workers, physicians, and other mental health professionals involved in our clients’ lives. The fear that their support systems might disappear is overwhelming, and teachers are caught in the middle of the storm.

If you think a child is being abused, talk to the school principal or counselor. Your support can make a difference.

Events With a Purpose

Food & Wine Gala
On November 30th, over $30,000 was raised at the Annual Food & Wine Gala at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Attendees included Elizabeth Falkner created the menu and Deborah Norville, Anchor of NBC Nightly News and Board Member of The NYSPCC hosted the evening. Vicky Cornell, founder of the Olivia and Vicky Cornell Foundation and NYSPCC Board Member, was the recipient of the Strength of Our Society Award in recognition of her magnificent contributions and support to The NYSPCC in our value to children and adult abuse.

In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, The NYSPCC quickly pivoted from holding an in-person Food & Wine Gala to host a virtual event for the very first time.

Steve Forman, Esq., The NYSPCC’s Director of Government Relations and Administration, was a speaker at the event. He also spoke on his new book, “Relentless Pursuit: My Fight for the Victims of Jeffrey Epstein” and talked about his new book, “Relentless Pursuit: My Fight for the Victims of Jeffrey Epstein” and talked about his fight for justice for the Epstein survivors. Tales From The NYSPCC Archives

It is amazing what hidden treasures lay buried within The NYSPCC’s archives. Some of the most interesting stories are those relating to the children who arrived in New York City and were reunited with their parents. For instance, supervisory, and sheltering. During this period, the mother recognized her children in the photograph of the two little boys, Michel, age 4, and Edmund, age 2, who were placed by their father into Collapsible D, the last lifeboat to be launched. Michel stayed behind and went down with the Titanic. The two little boys, Michel, age 4, and Edmund, age 2, were placed by their father into Collapsible D, the last lifeboat to be launched.
